Item 4: Advisory Business

A. Description of the Advisory Firm

CFI is a Registered Investment Adviser with the SEC, and Broker-Dealer, member FINRA and SIPC. CFI commenced operations in 1992 with the corporate headquarters being located in Anaheim, California. The principal owner of CFI is the Federation of Financial Services (“FFS”), owning more than 75% of the Firm. CFI offers a variety of advisory services through Investment Adviser Representatives (“IARs”) who are associated with the Firm. IARs are independent contractors who are registered to provide advisory services through CFI. IARs are also Registered Representatives of CFI and may also be licensed insurance agents.

B. Advisory Services Offered

The services provided by IARs primarily include financial planning and consulting, asset allocation, investment management and the utilization of Third-Party Money Managers (“TPMMs”) to manage client assets as deemed suitable. IARs may provide advisory services on a non-discretionary or discretionary basis. Clients who choose a non-discretionary advisory arrangement must be contacted by their IAR and provide authorization prior to the execution of any trades in their account(s). Clients who choose a discretionary advisory arrangement authorize their IAR to supervise and direct the portfolio management of the account(s) without prior consultation and approval by the client. CFI offers the following advisory services:

- CLASSIC Plus Programs

CLASSIC Plus is a fee-based advisory program through which IARs manage client accounts or, depending on the program selected, may choose from approved TPMMs to manage their assets within an account for an annual advisory fee. CLASSIC Plus allows clients to invest in various types of securities, such as, but not limited to:

- Stocks
- Mutual Funds
- Bonds
- Options
- Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs)
- Unit Investment Trusts (UITs)
- Alternative Investments
- Cash and/or Cash Equivalents

CLASSIC Plus offers multiple clearing and custodial options depending on the program selected. After consultation with their IAR, a client may select a CLASSIC Plus program appropriate for their objectives, goals, financial situation and risk tolerance, and will enter into an investment advisory agreement with CFI and the IAR for those services. In selecting a desired CLASSIC Plus program, the client will authorize CFI to open an account with the available custodian at the time the client enters into the investment advisory agreement. Specifics of each program, including the minimum investment, available custodian, fees, expenses and other important information, are disclosed in the investment advisory agreement for each available program.

- CLASSIC Plus – Morningstar® Managed PortfoliosSM

CFI offers Morningstar® Managed PortfoliosSM (“MMP”) through the Firm’s custodial relationship with Pershing. MMP offers professional guidance and access to strategies that can help investors reach their financial goals. The broad lineup of stock, ETF and mutual fund managed portfolios is designed to help meet the needs of clients at each stage of their lifetime.

MMPs are offered by Morningstar Investment Services LLC, a Registered Investment Adviser and subsidiary of Morningstar Investment Management LLC. MMPs are intended for citizens or legal residents of the United States or its territories and can only be offered by a Registered Investment Adviser or IAR. Portfolio construction and ongoing monitoring and maintenance of the portfolios within the program are provided on Morningstar Investment Services' behalf by Morningstar Investment Management LLC, a Registered Investment Adviser and subsidiary of Morningstar, Inc. Morningstar Investment Services LLC and its affiliates are not affiliated with CFI or its affiliates.

- CLASSIC Plus – FlexUMA

CFI offers CLASSIC Plus – FlexUMA (“FlexUMA”), which is a unified managed account investment program, through the Firm’s relationship with TD Ameritrade Institutional and Pershing. FlexUMA features investment overlay managers Adhesion Wealth Advisor Solutions and Lockwood Advisors, Inc. (“Overlay Managers”). FlexUMA consists of model portfolio strategies comprising individual equity securities, mutual funds and/or exchange-traded funds (“ETFs”) and also provides clients with access to a variety of approved TPMMs. Clients will not have a direct contractual relationship with Overlay Managers, or any other third-party strategist and/or third-party manager (collectively, “Third-Party Service Provider”), through the program, and will work directly with their IAR through CFI.

Prior to investing in the FlexUMA program, clients will consult with their IAR and enter into an investment advisory agreement with CFI and the IAR for those services. Depending on the management services selected, clients will grant the IAR discretionary or non-discretionary authority to manage the account through a selection of Third-Party Service Providers. In addition, clients will authorize the custodian to follow instructions given by the IAR, CFI or Overlay Managers to effect transactions, deliver securities, deduct fees and take other actions with respect to the account.

Tax Overlay Management (“Tax Overlay”) services are also available for an additional fee. If elected, Overlay Managers will develop a tax strategy for the account based on the information and instructions provided by the IAR or CFI on behalf of the client. Overlay Managers do not provide general tax advice, tax return preparation or tax-planning services. Overlay Managers will seek to reduce the overall tax burden of the account while seeking to maintain the risk and return characteristics of the model portfolios received from Third-Party Service Providers on the account. Overlay Managers will seek to avoid short-term gains where possible, but long-term gains are not limited unless the client has requested a mandate to limit realized long-term gains.

Overlay Managers will provide Tax Overlay with the assumption that those services will be provided to the account for an entire tax year. Termination or removal of the Tax Overlay before the completion of an entire tax year may result in adverse tax consequences, including without limitation, realization of short-term capital gains. Regardless of the account size or other factors, CFI highly recommends that clients consult with their CPA or tax adviser regarding the election or removal of the Tax Overlay service on their account. It is important that clients review the Form ADV Part 2A Brochures for Overlay Managers and other disclosure documents prior to, or at the time of, opening a FlexUMA account.

- CLASSIC Plus – Adviser-Directed

CFI provides an additional service for client held-away accounts that are maintained at independent third-party custodians. When this additional service is elected by a client, CFI utilizes the Pontera order management system to implement asset allocation or rebalancing strategies on behalf of the client for these held-away accounts. These are primarily employer-sponsored retirement plan accounts, 529 plans and other assets primarily maintained by the client.

- CLASSIC Plus – Advisory Annuity & Variable Life Management

CFI offers the CLASSIC Plus Advisory Annuity (“AA”), and Variable Life (“VL”) management programs. IARs manage the sub-account assets within a client’s annuity or variable life policy directly with the issuing insurance company. IARs may provide this service on a non-discretionary or discretionary basis. Prior to providing this service, client will consult with their IAR and enter into an agreement with CFI and the IAR for those services, if the client deems that the management of their annuity or variable life policy is appropriate. Management of annuity or variable life sub-accounts is limited to the sub-accounts available and offered by the issuing insurance company for the specific policy. If a commission is earned by the IAR upon the purchase of a specific policy to be managed, an advisory fee is not imposed for at least twelve months from the original purchase date.

- CLASSIC Plus – Alternative Investments and Direct Participation Programs

CFI generally does not allow its clients to hold alternative investments or direct participation programs in fee-based advisory accounts. However, at our discretion, CFI may hold alternative investments or direct participation programs (DPPs) such as non-traded REITs, non-traded BDCs, private real estate investments and certain other direct participation programs in advisory accounts held at Pershing, TD Ameritrade, or Charles Schwab at a client's request, under certain circumstances. Alternative investments or direct participation programs are generally not traded on a national securities exchange and therefore have no readily available market value. In some cases, holding these assets in an advisory account may allow clients to avoid additional custodial fees or account maintenance costs that might be incurred if the asset were held elsewhere. In some cases, customers may wish to consolidate accounts for simplicity and request that CFI hold otherwise "excluded" assets as an accommodation. The discretion to grant such requests rests solely with CFI.

However, with the exception of a limited list of perpetual life, non-traded REITs, most illiquid, alternative investment or direct participation programs are excluded by CFI from fee-based advisory accounts for purposes of calculating the asset-based fee assessed to the account. CFI has determined that most alternative investments cannot be managed or administered on a fee basis (due to their illiquidity, long-term holding period and infrequent valuations); therefore, most alternative investments are only offered by CFI on a commission basis through our affiliated Broker-Dealer. However, if such an asset is held in a fee-based account as an accommodation or otherwise, CFI has adopted policies and procedures to ensure such assets are excluded from the calculation of the asset-based fee charged to the account. Although many alternative investment products are made available by the investment sponsor/issuer for purchase "net of commission" to clients who pay an ongoing asset-based fee, CFI generally prohibits such net-of-commission purchases for the reasons previously provided. However, CFI does approve a select list of direct participation programs for use in advisory accounts net of commission or at net asset value as discussed in more detail below. Therefore, a CFI client who wishes to purchase an alternative investment/DPP that is not made available through CFI's fee-based platform may not be able to purchase such an investment on a fee basis. In those instances, CFI will typically only make such an investment available through its affiliated Broker-Dealer and will require that if the IAR wishes to offer such an investment, he/she does so in his/her capacity as a registered representative, if appropriate. If the IAR acts in his/her capacity as a registered representative, he/she will typically be compensated through the receipt of his/her share in the commission paid by the product and, depending on the selected share class, may be paid ongoing distribution fees. It is possible that other Registered Investment Advisory firms could offer the same investment net of commission on a fee basis based on their own policies, and CFI clients have no obligation to purchase this type of investment (or any investment) through CFI's affiliated Broker-Dealer. If a purchase is made on a commission basis through a registered representative, such commissions and fees are outlined in the prospectus or offering memorandum of the particular offering and should also be discussed directly with the representative. If a representative receives a commission based on the sale of an alternative investment/DPP, CFI has policies and procedures in place to ensure that a fee is not assessed on that asset if it is moved to a fee-based account.

As stated above, CFI has made certain non-traded investments available for purchase and management in its fee-based accounts. Typically, such investments are approved for fee-based accounts based on distinguishing characteristics of the particular investment, such as more frequent valuations, enhanced liquidity or opportunity for management of the investment through more frequent buy or sell opportunities (redemptions). These investments are approved to be recommended at net asset value (NAV) and therefore up-front commissions are not charged to clients. CFI typically only allows non-traded investments to be held in its fee-based accounts and included in the calculation of the asset-based fee of the account if the particular non-traded investment has policies in place or has indicated the ability to establish a reliable valuation process. CFI does not participate in the third-party valuation process.

- CLASSIC Plus – Performance Reporting

In addition to account statements provided by the account custodian, clients may also have access to quarterly performance reports noting fees, holdings, account performance and other account-related information. Performance reports are provided for informational purposes only and are not official records of CFI. Reports are prepared using sources and information believed to be reliable and are not a guarantee of positions owned or of the market value of such positions. Although great effort is taken to provide accurate information, these reports should not be used for tax or legal purposes. Clients should compare performance reports against statements received from the account custodian and should bring any inconsistencies or questions to the immediate attention of their IAR or CFI.

CFI has entered into an agreement with Orion Advisor Services, LLC (“Orion”) and Overlay Managers to provide, among other things, account reconciliation, reporting, securities pricing and valuation, and fee calculation services for client accounts. In computing the market value of any security or other investment in the account, each security listed on a national securities exchange will be valued by Orion and/or Overlay Managers, as of the valuation date, at the closing price on the principal exchange on which it is traded, or as determined by Orion and/or Overlay Managers. Any other security or investment in the account will be valued based on prices obtained or provided by Orion and/or Overlay Managers.

- Third-Party Money Management (TPMM) Programs

IARs may also recommend the services of approved TPMM programs. These programs are typically managed on a discretionary basis, and each TPMM may offer different types of investment programs and/or services. TPMM programs offer access to a variety of investment portfolio models and strategies with varying levels of risk. After consultation with their IAR, a client may select a TPMM investment management program appropriate for their objectives, goals, financial situation and risk tolerance. Clients will then enter into a separate investment advisory agreement with the TPMM for those services. TPMMs are separately Registered Investment Advisers and are not affiliated with CFI.

- Retirement Plan Services

CFI, through its IARs, may also provide advisory services to ERISA-qualified plans, such as pensions, 401(k) plans, profit-sharing plans and other retirement saving vehicles (the “Plan”). IARs will review with the client the expectations, goals and attributes of the Plan to determine the course of action to be taken. Such services are further outlined in a separate ERISA Plan Disclosure. IARs may serve as the Plan’s investment adviser pursuant to §3(21) of ERISA by formulating and presenting recommendations to the Responsible Plan Fiduciary (“RPF”) for his/her approval.

IARs will evaluate the demographics of the Plan’s participants to help select investment options that are appropriate for their retirement needs based upon ERISA §404(c)’s requirement that participant-directed retirement plans offer a “broad range” of investment options. IARs may prepare a summary of services recommended, including employee plan enrollment, employee education seminars and assisting the RPF with service provider selection and review.

In providing advice to ERISA-qualified Plans, IARs are not permitted to have discretion or management authority over plan assets, nor can they be a “named fiduciary.” As such, IARs are limited to providing non-discretionary services. IARs may recommend placing assets with a TPMM who may be given additional authority by the Plan. Any such services provided by a TPMM are subject to a separate agreement executed between the Plan and the TPMM.

When we provide investment advice to you regarding your retirement plan account or individual retirement account, we are fiduciaries within the meaning of Title I of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act and/or the Internal Revenue Code, as applicable, which are laws governing retirement accounts. The way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests, so we operate under a special rule that requires us to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours.

- Financial Planning and Consulting Services

CFI provides clients with a broad range of financial planning and consulting services which may include, but are not limited to:

- Investment Planning
- Retirement Planning
- Income Planning
- College Planning
- Estate Planning
- Business Planning
- Insurance Planning
- Health/Medical Planning
- Social Security Planning

After consultation with their IAR, a client may request financial planning and consulting services appropriate for their financial situation and will enter into a financial planning and consulting services agreement with CFI and the IAR for those services. The IAR will gather information regarding the client's investment objectives and financial situation, which may include current investments and assets, tax status, insurance coverage, liquidity, risk tolerance, retirement goals, time horizon, and estate needs, among other things. After completion of the fact-gathering process, the IAR will use the data to develop recommendations and will present them to the client.

- Other Professional Services

In addition to financial planning and consulting, some IARs may be licensed or able to provide other professional services such as legal, real estate or accounting services. Such services, if provided to the client, will be provided under a separate agreement and are not related to any services provided through CFI.

C. Tailored Advisory Services

While this Brochure discusses the general services offered through CFI, each individual client works with an IAR to determine the necessary advisory services to be provided based on the uniqueness of each client's investment objectives, goals, financial situation, risk tolerance and needs.

D. Wrap Fee Programs

The fees paid for any associated wrap fee program cover the advisory fee, brokerage commissions and, depending on the specific program, other trading and transaction-based costs placed through the program's custodian. CFI receives and retains a portion of the wrap fee for the Firm's services.

E. Assets Under Management

As of 04/30/22, CFI had the following amount of Assets Under Management ("AUM") on a discretionary and non-discretionary basis.

- $1,795,483,588.42 on a discretionary basis
- $2,768,641,032.32 on a non-discretionary basis

Item 5: Fees and Compensation

A. Advisory Services Fees – CLASSIC Plus Programs

CFI makes available several fee-based advisory programs through which IARs manage client accounts or, depending on the program selected, may choose from approved TPMMs to manage their assets within an account. After consultation with their IAR, a client may select a program appropriate for their objectives, goals, financial situation and risk tolerance, and will enter into an investment advisory agreement with CFI and the IAR for those services. CFI and the IAR are generally compensated for the investment management of the advisory account by charging an annual asset-based advisory fee. Specifics of each program, including the minimum investment, available custodian, applicable TPMM fees, expenses and other important information, are disclosed in the investment advisory agreement for each available program.

In general, advisory fees are negotiable at the discretion of the IAR and may differ from client to client or within various accounts of a single client. Advisory fees charged may be calculated on a tiered or flat rate schedule. A flat rate schedule means a set percentage will be assessed against the total value in the account, while a tiered rate schedule means that fees are blended. For example, as the portfolio value reaches a new account balance threshold, the assets greater than the prior threshold are charged a successively lower rate. The maximum advisory fee that an IAR may charge is determined by CFI or the applicable TPMM and is set forth in the program fee schedule below:

CLASSIC Plus Programs	Advisory Fee Billing Method	Account Custodian	Minimum Account Value	Maximum Advisory Fee
Alpha (N1X)	Monthly in Arrears	Pershing LLC	$25,000	2.25%
Beta (N1W)	Monthly in Arrears	Pershing LLC	$25,000	2.25%
ABJ	Monthly in Arrears	Pershing LLC	$0	2.25%
MMP	Quarterly in Advance	Pershing LLC	$25,000	1.10%
AA & VL	Monthly or Quarterly in Arrears or in Advance	Issuing Insurance Company	$25,000	2.00%
Omega	Monthly in Arrears	TD Ameritrade Institutional	$25,000	2.25%
FlexUMA	Monthly in Arrears	TD Ameritrade Institutional	$0	2.25%
	Monthly in Arrears	Pershing LLC	$10,000	2.25%
Delta	Monthly in Arrears	Charles Schwab & Co.	$25,000	2.25%
Adviser Directed	Monthly in Arrears	Plan Custodian	$25,000	1.35%

In addition to the advisory fee, depending on the program selected, additional charges such as transaction charges, custodial fees, transfer fees, internal fund fees, TPMM investment management fees and other administrative and operational related fees may be assessed against the account. These charges are separate and apart from the advisory fee assessed against the account. Information regarding additional fees and expenses is available in the investment advisory agreement for the program selected along with the custodial fee schedule, prospectus or other fee disclosure document for the particular security or party assessing the charge.

Minimum Account Value

In general, the CLASSIC Plus advisory programs require a minimum account value. Typically, the minimum account value is $25,000 but could be higher or lower depending on the program selected. For any billing period in which an account does not meet the minimum account value, CFI may, at its sole discretion, assess a minimum account value administration fee. Under certain circumstances, CFI may waive the account minimum at its sole discretion. Please refer to the specific investment advisory agreement for the advisory program selected for more information on any applicable minimum account value administration fees.

Advisory Annuity & Variable Life Management

An IAR, in the capacity of a Registered Representative of CFI, the Broker-Dealer, may have sold the annuity or variable life policy to the client and received a commission prior to entering into an advisory agreement. In such cases, CFI mitigates this conflict, as IARs are generally prohibited from charging an advisory fee for managing the annuity or variable life sub-accounts for a period of at least twelve months from the date of purchase. In some cases, fees for managing the sub-accounts may be deducted directly from the variable annuity or variable life policy. Fee deductions are generally considered distributions, and may affect the variable annuity or variable life policy terms and may have adverse tax consequences. Clients are highly encouraged to consult with their CPA or Tax Adviser regarding any tax ramifications related to fee deductions and/or distributions from an annuity or variable life policy.

Given the complexity of many annuity and variable life policies, including elected guarantees and/or riders, internal management fees and surrender charges, among other things, clients should discuss the contract terms of their annuity or variable life policy with their IAR to determine the impact that fee deductions will have on contract terms. Clients may receive an invoice for payment of fees, or, subject to certain restrictions, elect to have the fees deducted from the annuity or variable life policy, or a different account.

Third-Party Money Management (TPMM) Programs

Advisory fees paid by clients who invest in TPMM programs are negotiable subject to each TPMM's stated advisory and investment management fee ranges. Advisory fees are generally paid either quarterly or monthly in advance or in arrears depending on the program selected. The advisory fee payment method and calculations are outlined in the advisory agreement directly with the TPMM. In general, TPMM advisory fees range from 1.00% to 3.00% and are based on the size of the account, complexity of the investment strategy and underlying investments, among other factors. In addition to the TPMM, CFI and the IAR receive a portion of the advisory program fee for services and the referral. It is important that clients review the Form ADV Part 2A Brochure for the TPMM program selected and other disclosure documents prior to or at the time of opening an account with a TPMM to review all applicable fees.

Retirement Plan Fees

CFI is deemed to be a fiduciary under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 ("ERISA") when providing advice to covered retirement plans or plan participants. As such, CFI is subject to certain obligations and duties under ERISA. Depending on the program option selected, account fees may be billed either in advance or in arrears subject to the same fee table and parameters as noted above. Program fee information is also disclosed in the appropriate investment advisory agreement and Plan documents.

Financial Planning and Consulting Services

Fees for financial planning and consulting services are determined based on the nature of the services provided and the complexity of the individual client's circumstance. Fees for financial planning and consulting services are negotiable, and a client has no obligation to implement financial planning and consulting recommendations through CFI or the IAR. If the client chooses to implement any of the recommendations through CFI, implementation will be under a new and separate agreement apart from the financial planning and consulting services agreement and fee for those services. CFI and the IAR may not accept pre-payments of $1,200 or more for services which cannot be completed within six months.

B. Billing of Advisory Fees

Pursuant to the applicable investment advisory agreement and program selected, fees may be prorated and charged monthly or quarterly for the applicable period in advance or in arrears as noted above in Item 5.A. This is generally determined by the program selected and not by the client or IAR. Depending on the program, fees are typically deducted directly from the advisory account. In some instances, where a direct fee deduction from the account is not possible, a bill may be generated separately for the advisory fees on an account.

C. Other Fees in Connection with Advisory Services

Depending on the advisory program selected, additional charges such as transaction fees, custodial fees, transfer fees, qualified account fees, internal fund and exchange fees may be assessed against the account. These charges are separate and apart from the annual advisory fee assessed against the account. Information regarding any such charge is available in the custodial fee schedule, prospectus or other document for the particular security or party assessing the charge. Please refer to the investment advisory agreement of the program selected for more details relating to any additional fees or expenses associated with the program. Certain investments held within an advisory account such as Mutual Funds, Unit Investment Trusts (UITs) or Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs) may have internal expenses in addition to other fees for the account. Clients are encouraged to review the specific investment prospectus for additional information relating to internal expenses. Please also refer to Item 5.A above and Item 12 below for additional information on brokerage practices.

D. Advisory Agreement Termination & Refunds

Depending on the advisory program selected, advisory fees may be billed and deducted in advance. Investment advisory agreements may be terminated at any time by CFI or the client, upon written notice, and subject to the terms of the investment advisory agreement of the program selected. Any prepaid unearned fees will be prorated from the billing date and date of termination. Refunds will be made promptly to the client within a reasonable time, generally within thirty days from the date of termination.

E. Other Compensation

Many mutual funds that CFI makes available to clients for investment are categorized into different share classes. Each share class represents an interest in the same portfolio of securities. Some of these share classes pay a 12b-1 fee to the custodian in which securities are held. A 12b-1 fee is derived from the fund's assets and is paid for shareholder services, distribution and marketing expenses. Share classes that pay a 12b-1 fee generally have a higher cost than classes that do not. As a result, a lower return may be realized from the investment if the IAR recommends a higher-cost share class when a lower-cost share class is otherwise available. This creates a conflict of interest by incentivizing the IAR to recommend a higher-cost share class if the custodian keeps or shares this 12b-1 fee with CFI as a dually registered Broker-Dealer and CFI may in turn keep or share this fee with the IAR in their capacity as a dually Registered Representative of CFI, the Broker-Dealer. In order to mitigate this potential for a conflict of interest, CFI began to credit back all 12b-1 fees received to client accounts in September 2018. Therefore, as of September 2018, neither CFI nor its IARs receive revenue from 12b-1 fees. At no cost to clients, CFI reserves the right to initiate a conversion of client holdings in any share classes that pay a 12b-1 fee to lower-cost share classes, if available and known to CFI. CFI will not provide notice to clients in advance of the conversion. CFI will continue to credit back all 12b-1 fees to client accounts for which CFI has not yet completed a conversion to the lowest-cost share class available to CFI.

CFI offers products from Pershing's Fundvest® mutual fund platform, which features no-transaction-fee ("NTF") mutual funds (e.g., no trading commissions, no front-end sales loads, no deferred sales charges). The NTF transactions are subject to certain restrictions on short-term trading. Once certain asset thresholds of Fundvest® mutual funds are met, CFI has the ability to receive revenue-sharing fees from Pershing related to certain Fundvest® investments. CFI clients do not pay these fees directly, but the revenue-sharing fees are typically deducted from the total assets in the mutual fund and would therefore reduce investment returns to the client. In order to eliminate this conflict, CFI directs

Pershing to credit back any service fees generated from advisory assets held on the Fundvest® platform to client accounts. Under the current agreement with Pershing, CFI also receives 12b-1 fees from Pershing on certain share classes in the Fundvest® mutual fund platform. As with all 12b-1 fees received for advisory accounts since 2018, CFI credits back 12b-1 fees paid under this arrangement to the client account.

CFI offers a cash “sweep” program to clients who hold accounts at Pershing, our clearing firm. A cash sweep program enables clients to choose to automatically move uninvested free credit balances in certain brokerage and advisory accounts to a money market mutual fund or interest-bearing FDIC-insured bank deposit program. The products available and the terms and conditions of the cash sweep program vary and may change from time to time. Before choosing a product, please consult with your financial professional on the choices available and review the detailed terms and conditions contained in the prospectus or other offering document relating to the specific product. In addition, the terms and conditions of the cash sweep program may be changed by CFI at any time, subject to rules permitting such changes. CFI publishes some of the key terms and conditions of its cash sweep programs on its website under the “Investor Information” section.

The term “free credit balance” refers to the credit balance that remains in a client’s account after all purchases are made and are free from withdrawal restrictions. A client’s free credit balance generally originates from dividends, interest payments and/or security sales and may be used at any time to purchase more securities in the account. Clients with a free credit balance are not required to utilize the sweep program and instead may elect to receive the money each month in the form of a withdrawal, invest the money or allow the cash to sit idle as a free credit balance where it will earn no interest.

If a client selects a cash sweep option, CFI offers its clients a “Cash Sweep Program” pursuant to which the client may automatically transfer free credit balances into specific money market mutual fund products or into a deposit account that utilizes one or more banks whose deposits are insured by the FDIC. Upon opening a new account with CFI, the client will be provided with a Client Agreement/New Account Form and will be asked to select whether they would like their account to participate in the cash sweep program and, if selected, whether they would like to utilize a bank deposit program or money market mutual fund as their default sweep option. Upon executing the Client Agreement, you appoint our clearing firm, Pershing, as your authorized agent to establish and maintain your sweep accounts. You may contact your IAR at any time to opt out of participating in the Cash Sweep Program. Once opted out, any cash deposits will remain as a free credit balance and will not earn interest or be protected with FDIC insurance.

CFI has a conflict of interest in offering a Cash Sweep Program because it receives third-party payments based on the amount of deposits held in the Cash Sweep Program through Pershing. These payments are generally referred to as “distribution assistance” and are paid based on CFI’s role in administering and complying with the terms of the program. For the money market funds and bank deposit programs available through the Cash Sweep Program, Pershing usually receives remuneration that comes out of the operating expenses of the money market funds or is paid by the depository institutions and, in most cases, CFI is entitled to receive a portion of the payments received by Pershing. For money market funds, payments are calculated and made to CFI based on an assets-based formula, which means the payment made to CFI is based on the amount of assets held in the Cash Sweep Program. For the money market fund option, CFI may be entitled to receive up to 55 basis points, or 0.55%, of the assets held in the money market fund by CFI clients. The money market funds participating in the Cash Sweep Program generally have the right to lower payments to Pershing, based on market conditions, and thus the amount that is eligible to be paid to CFI, which typically occurs in low interest rate environments in order to ensure a stable NAV or positive return to shareholders at the fund’s discretion. The fees paid to CFI are in addition to what Pershing and the money market fund may charge clients directly. For the FDIC-insured bank deposit program, CFI is entitled to be paid a portion of the gross interest rate payable to clients by the depository institutions based on the underlying individual account balance held in the bank deposit program. The fees in both money market funds and bank deposit accounts can be lower in low interest rate environments and will generally be higher in aggregate as interest rates increase. The interest paid to client accounts on assets held in the bank deposit program is determined by the banks in the program, not by CFI. Nonetheless, the amounts paid to CFI as distribution assistance are not available to be paid to clients and therefore generally reduce the rate of return to the client. This distribution assistance is in addition to the advisory fee that CFI and its IARs may receive in connection with such balances pursuant to the client’s advisory contract. CFI’s IARs do not receive any additional compensation based on assets held in the Cash Sweep Program. Since additional compensation is earned by CFI through the sweep options offered, a conflict of interest exists for CFI due to the economic benefit derived from the distribution assistance paid on cash balances being moved into the Cash Sweep Program rather than reinvested in other investment funds or securities where CFI may not receive the same economic benefit.

In addition, a conflict of interest exists in CFI's selection of the money market fund(s) utilized in the Cash Sweep Program. In order to ensure the quality of the product being offered and the suitability of the product for a client, as well as easing administrative burdens, CFI limits the money market funds available for its Cash Sweep Program through the Pershing platform. The additional compensation received in the form of distribution assistance creates a conflict of interest for CFI because CFI is incentivized to choose a sweep option that pays it the highest amount of distribution assistance. In many cases, the sweep products that are made available through Pershing that generate a higher amount of distribution assistance provide lower returns to the client. The foregoing conflicts of interest are mitigated under our policies and procedures that have been adopted for this purpose, but not eliminated. Specifically, IARs who make investment recommendations for the client account do not receive any economic benefit from these distribution assistance payments. Therefore, they have no financial incentive to recommend that the client holds assets in a Cash Sweep Account as opposed to other investment options. In terms of the money market fund or the bank program selection process, CFI considers other qualitative and quantitative factors in selecting the appropriate money market fund or bank deposit program to be utilized in its Cash Sweep Program in addition to the amount of distribution assistance or expenses incurred by the underlying funds, such as safety, liquidity, management strength and track record, and, where applicable, FDIC insurance limits. CFI also takes numerous other important factors into consideration, including but not limited to the risks to individual accounts, the risks to the Firm as a whole, diversifying cash management selections, and brand recognition and strength. However, clients should understand that the above conflicts of interest exist and that there may be other more attractive options available to clients who wish to hold assets in cash, such as direct deposits in outside bank accounts or investments into other money market funds available for purchase outside of the Cash Sweep Program. In addition, if the client intends to hold large amounts of cash for a prolonged period of time that they do not intend to invest in other types of securities, the client should discuss this with their IAR and explore available options in addition to the options made available in the Cash Sweep Program.

Pursuant to CFI's Clearing Agreement with Pershing, CFI receives payments deemed "transition credits" of up to $75 per retail and retirement account transferred onto the Pershing clearing platform after previously being held at other clearing firms or custodians. The payments may be used by CFI, in part, to offset certain costs that may be incurred in terminating or transferring client accounts from other firms. The payments are subject to certain restrictions and repayments by CFI for accounts that leave the Pershing platform within a certain timeframe. The payments create a conflict of interest in that CFI receives additional compensation from Pershing for opening a client account with Pershing, and therefore, CFI has a financial incentive to encourage its IARs to advocate that clients open an account with Pershing as opposed to encouraging the client to keep the account with a clearing firm or custodian that does not make such a payment to CFI. Notably, CFI does not share the transition credit payments with its IARs, but CFI has discretion to apply the transition credits to client accounts to offset costs incurred.

In an effort to provide a broad range of account options, certain advisory programs that are not "wrap fee" programs include a charge for individual transactions or "trades" in the account in addition to the advisory fee charged to the account. CFI receives compensation for each trade. Depending on the selection chosen in the advisory agreement for these programs, the transaction charges are billed to either the IAR or the client. When billed to the IAR, this arrangement, while agreed upon in the advisory agreement, represents a conflict of interest as the IAR has a financial incentive to recommend fewer trades in the account because the IAR is charged for each trade. When billed to the client, this arrangement represents a conflict of interest because CFI, as Broker-Dealer, receives compensation based on each trade, which provides an incentive for the Registered Investment Adviser to approve of or recommend trading more frequently. This conflict is partially mitigated due to the fact that the individual IAR responsible for making recommendations for the account is not financially incentivized to trade more frequently because the individual IAR does not receive any of the compensation related to the transaction charges in the account. In addition, the above conflicts are mitigated by disclosing to the client which party is responsible for individual transaction charges in the advisory agreement as well as the general supervision of accounts to identify unusual trading activity. Before accepting or approving trades within a client's account, the client should understand the type of account they own, who is responsible for transaction charges (the client or the IAR) and how the arrangement may affect each party's incentive to recommend or approve trades. Before approving transactions in an account, it is important for the client to understand how the transaction helps them meet their objectives. If, through consultation with their IAR, the client determines that certain transactions will benefit their account, the client should weigh the potential benefit with any costs that they may incur in executing the transaction(s).

CFI receives compensation through strategic marketing arrangements with several third-party money managers. These payments are designed to compensate CFI for the cost of providing services, such as marketing and events, and therefore receipt of these funds indirectly benefits CFI IARs and creates a conflict of interest. Notably, CFI IARs do not directly receive any of the compensation paid to CFI from these strategic marketing arrangements.

Due to the additional resources required for the operational efforts, servicing, reporting, account maintenance and ongoing research required to select and maintain certain non-traded alternative investments, such as perpetual life REITs, CFI generally only makes available share classes that pay a service fee (generally up to 25 basis points, 1/4 of 1%) on total assets placed in the non-traded alternative investment by CFI client accounts ("Dealer Servicing Fee"), even if a less expensive share class is otherwise available. Receipt of these fees from the REIT (or other alternative investment) companies creates a conflict of interest in that CFI is encouraged to recommend an investment that pays additional compensation over one that does not pay such fees. Notably, CFI does not share these fees with its IARs.

The share class being offered by CFI (typically "D" shares or "Dealer" shares), including all associated fees and expenses, is fully described in the offering prospectus, and CFI encourages its clients to read and understand the prospectus before investing in any offering. Further, CFI requires that before a client purchases an approved alternative investment direct participation program in a fee-based account, such investor must first complete an Alternative Investment Order Form, acknowledging receipt of the prospectus, confirming certain investor and suitability information and an understanding of any other unique characteristics of an alternative investment direct participation program offering.

RECRUITING AND TRANSITION ASSISTANCE – To assist in the cost of transitioning from another investment advisory firm or, in the case of dually licensed IARs, their former Broker-Dealer, CFI extends loans or transition assistance to certain IARs when joining CFI to assist with the IAR's transition costs. The proceeds of the transition assistance loans are intended to be used for a variety of purposes, including but not limited to providing working capital to assist in funding the IAR's business, satisfying outstanding debt owed to the IAR's previous firm, technology set-up fees, marketing and mailing costs, stationery and licensure transfer fees, moving expenses, office space expenses, and staffing support and additional labor costs. These loans are generally forgivable in nature based on the IAR reaching agreed-upon revenue targets or continuing to remain affiliated with CFI for a specified period of time. As these loans are generally forgivable, they should be considered as additional compensation to the IAR, which creates a conflict of interest. A forgivable loan based on a revenue or production target creates a conflict of interest in that the IAR is incentivized to act in a manner that results in the IAR earning more revenue in order to ensure that the loan is forgiven. Similarly, a loan that is forgiven based on the IAR remaining with CFI for a specified period of time is a conflict of interest in that the IAR may be incentivized to keep sales or revenue levels up to avoid being terminated for low production prior to the expiration of the forgivable term. More generally, the receipt of the recruiting/transition assistance creates a conflict of interest in that the IAR has a financial incentive to recommend that a client open and maintain an account with the Firm because, in addition to the fees that the IAR would earn directly from the client by opening and maintaining an account with CFI, the IAR also benefits if he/she is able to meet the specified production levels or length of service requirements in that the IAR can avoid having to repay the transition loan, which can be substantial.

Clients are under no obligation to purchase any recommended investment-related products or services through CFI or the Firm's associated IARs.

Item 6: Performance-Based Fees

CFI and its IARs do not charge performance-based fees. However, some TPMMs may offer advisory programs that charge performance-based fees. It is important that clients review the Form ADV Part 2A Brochure for the TPMM program selected and other disclosure documents prior to opening an account with a TPMM that charges performance-based fees.

Item 7: Types of Clients

CFI, through its IARs, provides investment advice and services to a variety of clients including individuals, high-net-worth individuals, families, small businesses, corporations, charitable organizations, foundations, trusts, estates and other business entities. Typically, the minimum account value to open a CLASSIC Plus account is $25,000, but it could be higher or lower depending on the program selected. Minimum account values to open an account directly with a TPMM vary.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risks of Loss

Methods of Analysis

IARs may use various methods of analysis to determine an appropriate investment strategy for a client's portfolio. These methods of analysis may include, but are not limited to:

- Fundamental Analysis: Focuses on analyzing the value of a security by focusing on characteristics of the issuing company including its financial statements, earnings record, assets, liabilities, management team, industry competitors, market penetration and its competitive advantages, among others. The value is then compared to the current price of the issuing company's security to determine whether to purchase, sell or hold the security.
- Technical Analysis: Focuses on analyzing market statistics and charting in order to make buy and sell decisions for a particular security. Technical analysis primarily involves studying charts and statistics of trading history, market activity, trading volume, and statistics for the security being analyzed.
- Bottom-Up Analysis: Focuses on analyzing individual securities for their merits, such as valuation, management competence, pricing power and other unique characteristics of the stock and company. Bottom-up investment analysis focuses on an individual company rather than the industry or economy as a whole.
- Top-Down Analysis: Focuses on the overall economic market, and industrial trends before making a more granular analysis of specific industries or companies that have favorable outlooks.

Other types of investment analysis, other than those noted herein, may also be utilized. Clients are encouraged to discuss the specific methods of analysis directly with their IAR.

Investment Strategies

IARs may use various investment strategies to help guide investment decisions for a client's account based on their individual objectives, goals, financial situation and risk tolerance, among other things. These methods of investment strategies may include, but are not limited to:

- Diversification: A risk-management strategy that involves using a wide variety of non-correlated investments within a portfolio. Diversification seeks to reduce the overall investment risk and avoid damaging the portfolio's performance through the poor performance of a single security or industry.

- Dollar-Cost Averaging: A strategy that involves buying a fixed dollar amount of securities at regularly scheduled intervals, regardless of the price per share. Dollar-cost averaging seeks to reduce the risk of incurring substantial losses resulting from investing a higher lump sum in securities at the high of the market before a downturn.
- Asset Allocation: A strategy that involves balancing risk versus reward by utilizing various asset classes such as stocks, bonds, mutual funds, alternatives, cash and others, as appropriate, based on an individual client's risk tolerance, goals, objectives and time horizon.

There is no guarantee that diversification, dollar-cost averaging, asset allocation or other investment strategy methods will protect against loss or ensure a profit.

Risk of Loss

As with any method of analysis or investment strategy, various investment risks may be involved. Below are some of the most common types of investment risks:

- Market risk: The risk of investments declining in value because of economic developments or other events that affect the entire market. The main types of market risk are equity risk, interest rate risk and currency risk.
 - Equity Risk: The risk of loss due to a drop in the market price of shares.
 - Interest Rate Risk: The risk of loss due to a change in the interest rate.
 - Currency risk: The risk of loss due to a movement in the exchange rate.
- Liquidity Risk: The risk of being unable to sell an investment at a fair price due to a lack of demand for the security being sold.
- Concentration Risk: The risk of loss because assets are concentrated in one investment or type of investment.
- Credit Risk: The risk that the government entity or company that issued the bond will run into financial difficulties and won't be able to pay the interest or repay the principal at maturity.
- Reinvestment Risk: The risk of maintaining favorable returns from reinvesting principal or income at a lower interest rate.
- Inflation Risk: The risk of a loss in purchasing power due to the value of the investment not keeping up with inflation.
- Horizon Risk: The risk that a client's investment horizon may be shortened because of an unforeseen event such as the loss of employment.
- Longevity Risk: The risk of outliving investments and savings.
- Foreign Investment Risk: The risk of loss when investing in foreign countries.

All methods of analysis and investment strategies have limitations. Therefore, performance results cannot be guaranteed, and past performance is no guarantee of future results. Methods of analysis and investment strategies rely on the assumption that the companies issuing the recommended securities, the rating agencies that review these securities and sources of public information about these securities are providing accurate and unbiased data. In general, these sources of information are believed to be reliable, however, there is always a risk that any analysis may be compromised by inaccurate or misleading information. Investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear.

Item 9: Disciplinary Information

CFI is required to disclose any legal or disciplinary events material to a client's, or prospective client's, evaluation of the Firm's advisory business or the integrity of the Firm's management.

- In 2009, FINRA found that CFI failed to adequately safeguard certain customer information on a computer fax server, adequately respond to information that unauthorized persons had accessed the system, adequately investigate the scope of the unauthorized access and sent inaccurate notification of the access to affected customers and representatives, thus failing to comply with Regulation S-P and FINRA rules 2010, 2011, 2211 and 3010. Without admitting or denying the findings, CFI paid a $175,000 fine and implemented the requested corrections.
- In 2010, FINRA found that CFI did not report the correct time of trade to the Real-Time Transaction Reporting System (RTRS) for certain municipal securities transactions and also did not report certain transactions to the RTRS within fifteen (15) minutes as required by MSRB Rule G-14. Without admitting or denying the findings, CFI paid a $10,000 fine and was required to revise the Firm's written supervisory procedures with respect to MSRB reporting.
- In 2011, the Nevada Securities Division alleged that CFI did not comply with one of the provisions of an agreement it entered into regarding the supervision of one of its Registered Representatives by not notifying the Division in writing within ten (10) calendar days of a change in the Registered Representative's supervisor. Without admitting or denying the statement of facts and conclusion of law contained in the administrative order, CFI consented to the entry of the order and paid a $5,000 fine to settle the matter.
- In 2014, FINRA found that CFI failed to comply with SEC Rule 17a-4(b)(4); FINRA Rule 2010; and NASD Rules 2210, 2211, 3010, 3010(a) and (d)3 and 3110(a). Five of CFI's Registered Representatives (wholesale Representatives) functioned as wholesalers for an unaffiliated investment management firm. Although CFI contracted to provide exclusive authority and control over the direction and supervision of the representatives in connection with wholesaling five of the investment management firm's fund private placements, CFI's Written Supervisory Procedures (WSPs) did not specifically address the supervision of wholesaling activities, and CFI did not properly supervise the wholesaling activities of the wholesale Representatives. Without admitting or denying the findings, CFI consented to a censure and paid a $25,000 fine.
- In 2016, a FINRA industry review found that CFI failed to identify and apply certain sales charge discounts to certain customers' eligible purchases of Unit Investment Trusts (UITs). Without admitting or denying the findings, CFI paid a $100,000 fine and paid $85,281.62 back to all affected customers.
- In 2019, the Colorado Division of Securities alleged potential violations of various state and FINRA regulations related to the sale of structured CDs/notes to a limited number of Colorado residents. The matter was dismissed and the hearing vacated. Without admitting and expressly denying any wrongdoing or violations of any securities laws or regulations, the Firm entered into a negotiated Stipulated Agreement for Consent Order on April 22, 2020. The Agreement limits its ability to license certain representatives, assign certain supervisors, and recommend certain structured products in Colorado.
- On September 21, 2020, the Louisiana Department of Insurance alleged that the Firm did not disclose an administrative action on three licensing renewal applications and reported two administrative actions in violation of LA. R.S. 22:1554(A)(2) and LA. R.S. 22:1563(A) in an untimely manner. It should be noted that the Firm did not intentionally violate any reporting or disclosure rules. The information referenced in the allegation was appropriately and timely disclosed on the Firm's form BD, the Central Registration Depository, and FINRA's BrokerCheck. Without admitting or denying any of the facts and/or conclusions of law contained in the administrative action, CFI was subject to the entry of an administrative action and a $500.00 fine.

- On June 2, 2021, without admitting or denying the findings therein, CFI consented to the entry of an Order Instituting Administrative and Cease-and-Desist Proceedings Pursuant to Section 15(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Sections 203(e) and 203(k) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, Making Findings, and Imposing Remedial Sanctions and a Cease-and-Desist Order (“Order”). The proceedings and Order arose out of breaches of fiduciary duty by CFI, a dually registered Investment Adviser and Broker-Dealer, in connection with its receipt of third-party compensation from client investments without fully and fairly disclosing its conflicts of interest. In spite of these financial arrangements, CFI provided no disclosure or inadequate disclosure of the multiple conflicts of interest arising from the Firm’s receipt of third-party compensation. CFI also failed to adopt and implement written compliance policies and procedures reasonably designed to prevent violations of the Advisers Act and the rules thereunder in connection with its mutual fund share class selection practices, cash sweep revenue sharing and NTF revenue sharing, in violation of Sections 206(2) and 206(4) of the Advisers Act and Rule 206(4)-7. A complete copy of the Order can be found through the SEC’s website at the following web address: <https://www.sec.gov/litigation/admin/2021/34-92095.pdf>. Pursuant to the Order, CFI was censured, subject to certain undertakings and required to pay disgorgement in the amount of $907,377, prejudgment interest in the amount of $124,019, and a civil monetary penalty of $250,000.

Item 10: Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Firm Registrations

CFI is an SEC Registered Investment Adviser, FINRA member Broker-Dealer, and the principal owner is The Federation of Financial Services (“FFS”), owning more than 75% of CFI. The Firm’s affiliates include:

- Pacific Point Securities (“Pacific Point”), a FINRA member Broker-Dealer and managing Broker-Dealer. Pacific Point currently has no clients.
- Alpha Centauri Wealth Management (“ACWM”), an SEC Registered Investment Adviser. ACWM currently has no clients, affiliated IARs, or assets under management or administration.

Management Personnel Registrations

Management personnel of CFI have the following relationships that may be considered material to their functions:

- Owners of CFI and its parent company, FFS, also own ACWM.
- Certain management personnel are separately licensed as Registered Representatives of CFI. These individuals, in their separate capacity, may effect securities transactions for which they may be compensated.
- Certain management personnel are separately licensed as Registered Representatives of Pacific Point. These individuals, in their separate capacity, may supervise or effect securities transactions for which they may be compensated.
- Certain management personnel are licensed attorneys with the California State Bar. None of these individuals provide direct legal services to any non-employee- or non-family-related CFI clients.
- Certain management personnel are Real Estate Brokers licensed with the California Department of Real Estate. None of these individuals have any current clients in this capacity.
- Certain management personnel are separately licensed agents of various insurance companies. These individuals, in their separate capacity, may receive compensation resulting from the sale of insurance products to clients.

- Management personnel may also conduct business in other industries that could be considered material.

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

CFI has a Code of Ethics (“Code”) that sets forth standards of conduct that are expected of employees of CFI and IARs. The Code was designed to address conflicts of interest and promote ethical standards of compliance and requires persons associated with CFI to act with honesty, good faith and fair dealing in working with clients. In addition, the Code prohibits such associated persons from trading or otherwise acting on insider information. An IAR may purchase or sell the same security he or she recommends to a client. This creates a conflict of interest in that IARs may receive a better price than the client. The Firm’s Code places restrictions on IARs’ personal trading activities in order to mitigate this conflict. A copy of the Code can be requested by calling or emailing the Compliance Department at (800) 880-4234 or cficompliance@cfiemail.com.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

A. Selection and Recommendation of Broker-Dealers

CFI is both a FINRA-registered introducing Broker-Dealer and an SEC Registered Investment Adviser. In general, CFI does not utilize other introducing Broker-Dealers for trade execution or brokerage services, with the exception of accounts held at TD Ameritrade Institutional (TD Ameritrade Institutional acts as the registered Broker-Dealer for these accounts). CFI makes every effort to provide clients with the most timely and cost-effective trade executions and brokerage services. In doing so, CFI has considered a multitude of factors for offering the custodial and brokerage services provided by firms available to clients. Some of those factors include financial strength, reputation, reporting and execution capabilities, pricing and additional services provided to clients. While clients are free to execute trades through any Broker-Dealer they choose, CFI generally executes and clears account transactions through the following custodians, depending on the CLASSIC Plus program selected:

- Pershing LLC, a subsidiary of The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation, One Pershing Plaza, 4th Floor, Jersey City, NJ 07399 “Pershing”
- TD Ameritrade Institutional, a division of TD Ameritrade, Inc., 7801 Mesquite Bend Drive, Suite 112, Irving, TX 75063 “TDA”
- Charles Schwab & Company, Inc.
1945 Northwestern Drive, El Paso, TX 79912 “Schwab”

Approved TPMMs offered through CFI utilize non-affiliated Broker-Dealers. These Broker-Dealers are chosen directly by the applicable TPMM. Account transactions for the CLASSIC Plus VA and VL programs are executed directly through the issuing insurance company and their designated custodian.

B. Research and Other Soft Dollar Benefits

CFI participates in the TD Ameritrade Institutional services advisor program (“TDA Institutional Program”). TD Ameritrade Institutional is a division of TD Ameritrade, Inc. (“TD Ameritrade”) member FINRA/SIPC. TD Ameritrade is an independent and unaffiliated SEC-registered broker-dealer. TD Ameritrade offers to independent investment Advisors services which include custody of securities, trade execution, clearance and settlement of transactions. CFI receives some benefits from TD Ameritrade through its participation in the TDA Institutional Program. (Please see the disclosure under Item 14 below.)

CFI does not receive any additional research or other products or services other than execution from a Broker- Dealer or a third party in direct connection with client securities transactions (“Soft Dollar Benefits”).

C. Brokerage for Client Referrals

CFI does not consider, when selecting or recommending Broker-Dealers, whether CFI or a related person receives client referrals from a Broker-Dealer or third party.

D. Directed Brokerage

CFI does not routinely recommend, request or require that clients direct the Firm to execute transactions through a specified Broker-Dealer. In general, the option is unavailable to direct securities transactions to other Broker- Dealers or account custodians.

For any instance when a direct brokerage request is approved for the use of another Broker-Dealer for execution of securities transactions, CFI may be unable to achieve the most favorable execution for a client’s transaction.

Directing brokerage may cost a client more in brokerage commissions and transaction costs as CFI may be unable to negotiate costs and lose the ability to aggregate orders to reduce transaction costs.

E. Block Trading and Aggregation of Orders

An IAR that is approved for discretion may make block trades for multiple clients. Block trading allows the IAR to aggregate the purchase or sale of securities for various client accounts in order to achieve a more favorable execution for client transactions. For circumstances when a client’s order is aggregated with other client orders, shares of the security will be distributed to those clients participating in the block trade in a fair and equitable manner. The distribution of shares purchased is typically proportionate to the size of the account and is not based on account performance or the amount or structure of advisory fees.

Subject to the IAR’s discretion regarding market conditions, when orders are combined, each participating account pays an average price per share for all transactions and pays a proportionate share of all transaction costs. Accounts owned by associated persons of CFI may participate in block trading with client accounts; however, these associated persons will not be given preferential treatment of any kind.

Item 13: Review of Accounts

A. Account Review

In order to provide a high level of service and ongoing review, CFI requires, at minimum, annual contact and review between IARs and their clients who maintain an advisory account through CFI. Annual contact provides the opportunity for clients to discuss with their IAR and provide any updates to their financial situation, investment goals and objectives, personal changes, and other account information that may require a change in the overall management strategy of the advisory account. IARs are required to complete and document this review on an annual basis and maintain that information in the client file.

B. Other Factors for Account Review

More frequent reviews may be necessary based on variables such as changes to an individual client’s personal or financial situation, the overall stock market or the economic or political environment. Clients are encouraged to notify and responsible for notifying their IAR any time they have any material changes to their financial situation, investment goals and objectives, personal changes, or other related events that could impact the management of their advisory account. Clients should also contact their IAR any time they have any questions regarding their account in general.

C. Statements & Reporting

Clients will receive an account statement at least quarterly from the custodian of the advisory program selected that contains the account balance, holdings, activity and other account-related information. Clients in the CLASSIC Plus program may also have access to quarterly performance reports noting fees, holdings, account performance and other account-related information. Clients should compare performance reports against statements received from the account custodian and should bring any inconsistencies or questions to the immediate attention of their IAR or CFI. Clients may also request specific account information from their IAR or CFI as necessary.

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Client Referrals

CFI may pay referral fees to other individuals for referring clients to CFI. The Firm requires these individuals to comply with applicable laws, rules and regulations related to solicitation activities, including any state rules requiring registration. Individuals with which the Firm has a solicitor arrangement have a financial interest in referring clients to CFI and IARs, and receive a percentage of the advisory fee clients pay CFI. No additional fees are assessed when clients are referred to CFI. If a client is introduced to CFI or one of the Firm's IARs through a soliciting partner, clients will receive a separate written disclosure document that contains important information related to the solicitor arrangement. Clients should review this document carefully before opening an advisory account with CFI.

Other Compensation

CFI receives compensation through strategic marketing arrangements with several third-party money managers. These payments are designed to compensate CFI for the cost of providing services, such as marketing and events, and therefore receipt of these funds indirectly benefits CFI representatives and creates a conflict of interest. Notably, CFI representatives do not directly receive any of the compensation paid to CFI from these strategic marketing arrangements.

IARs are also Registered Representatives of CFI, the Broker-Dealer. As such, IARs may recommend brokerage investment products and services outside of an advisory account and receive compensation for doing so. A conflict of interest exists between the IAR's duty to provide unbiased advice to clients and the potential receipt of fees or commissions on investment-related transactions effected through CFI, the Broker-Dealer. It is important for clients to consider the fees, level of service and investment strategies, among other factors, when selecting an IAR with whom to conduct business. IARs have a fiduciary duty to recommend investment products and services that the IAR believes are in the best interest of the client.

As disclosed under Item 12 above, CFI participates in the TDA Institutional Program and may recommend TD Ameritrade to clients for custody and brokerage services. There is no direct link between CFI's participation in the TDA Institutional Program and the investment advice it gives to its clients, although CFI receives economic benefits through its Participation in the program that are typically not available to TD Ameritrade retail investors. These benefits include the following products and services (provided without cost or at a discount): receipt of duplicate client statements and confirmations; research-related products and tools; consulting services; access to a trading desk serving CFI participants; access to block trading, which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions for execution and then allocate the appropriate shares to client accounts; the ability to have advisory fees deducted directly from client accounts; access to an electronic communications network for client order entry and account information; access to mutual funds with no transaction fees and to certain institutional money managers; and discounts on compliance, marketing, research, technology, and practice management products or services provided to CFI by third party vendors. TD Ameritrade may also have paid for business consulting and professional services received by CFI's related persons. Some Of the products and services made available by TD Ameritrade through the TDA Institutional Program may benefit CFI but may not benefit its client accounts. These products or services may assist CFI in managing and administering client accounts, including accounts not maintained at TD Ameritrade. Other services made available by TD Ameritrade are intended to help CFI manage and further develop its business enterprise. CFI's clients do not pay more for assets maintained at TD Ameritrade as a result of its receipt of these services or products. However, CFI benefits from its participation in the TDA Institutional Program as the cost of these services would otherwise be borne directly by CFI. The benefits received by CFI or its personnel through participation in the TDA Institutional Program do not depend on the amount of brokerage transactions directed to TD Ameritrade. As part of its fiduciary duties to clients, CFI endeavors at all times to put the interests of its clients first. Clients should be aware, however, that the receipt of economic benefits by CFI or its related persons in and of itself creates a conflict of interest and may influence CFI's recommendation and/or choice of TD Ameritrade for custody and brokerage services. Clients should consider this conflict of interest when selecting TD Ameritrade.

CFI also receives from TD Ameritrade certain additional economic benefits ("Additional Services") that may or may not be offered to any other independent investment Advisors participating in the TDA Institutional Program. Specifically, the Additional Services include payments for Orion Adviser Services, LLC. TD Ameritrade provides the Additional Services to CFI in its sole discretion and at its own expense, and CFI does not pay any fees to TD Ameritrade for the Additional Services. CFI and TD Ameritrade have entered into a separate agreement ("Additional Services Addendum") to govern the terms of the provision of the Additional Services.

CFI's receipt of Additional Services creates a conflict of interest. In providing Additional Services to CFI, TD Ameritrade Most likely considers the amount and profitability to TD Ameritrade of the assets in, and trades placed for, CFI's client accounts maintained with TD Ameritrade. TD Ameritrade has the right to terminate the Additional Services Addendum with CFI, in its sole discretion. Consequently, in order to continue to obtain the Additional Services from TD Ameritrade, CFI may have an incentive to recommend to its clients that the assets under management by CFI be held in custody with TD Ameritrade and to place transactions for client accounts with TD Ameritrade. CFI's receipt of Additional Services does Not diminish its duty to act in the best interests of its clients, including to seek best execution of trades for client accounts.

Item 15: Custody

CFI does not maintain physical custody of client assets. Depending on the advisory program selected, clearing and custody services for CLASSIC Plus program accounts are offered through Pershing, TD Ameritrade, Schwab or directly with the underlying issuing insurance company in the case of variable annuity or variable life policies. The custodian will send account statements to clients at least quarterly. Account statements include a summary of all transactions, all deposits and withdrawals, all fees and expenses, and the value of the account at the beginning and end of the stated time period. Clients should review these statements carefully.

In addition to account statements provided by the custodian, CLASSIC Plus clients may also have access to quarterly performance reports, depending on the program selected. These reports provide information regarding fees, holdings, account performance and other account-related information. Performance reports are provided for informational purposes only and are not official records of CFI. Reports are prepared using sources and information believed to be reliable and are not a guarantee of positions owned or of the market value of such positions. Although great effort is taken to provide accurate information, these reports should not be used for tax or legal purposes. Clients should compare performance reports against statements received from the account custodian and should bring any inconsistencies or questions to the immediate attention of their IAR or CFI.

Item 16: Investment Discretion

CFI offers advisory services on a discretionary and non-discretionary basis. With discretion, a client appoints the IAR as attorney-in-fact through a discretionary investment advisory agreement with respect to such trading authorization. Pursuant to such authorization IAR may in its sole discretion, without prior consent of client and at client's risk, purchase, sell or otherwise trade the securities and investments in the account. Discretionary trading authority does not allow CFI or the IAR to withdraw funds or take custody of client funds or securities. A client may revoke discretionary authority at any time by providing notice to CFI or the IAR. Upon receipt of a revocation notice, discretionary authority will be revoked and the account will be managed in a non-discretionary manner, which requires express consent in advance to trades made in a client's account. For non-discretionary accounts, clients are under no obligation to accept any recommendations, and clients retain sole discretion over the investments to be purchased and sold in the account.

With the FlexUMA program, Overlay Managers generally act as agent and attorney-in-fact with authority to act on behalf of the account and therefore have investment discretion. This means that Overlay Managers have the authority, within the limits of instructions from CFI or the IAR, to determine, without obtaining client consent, the securities to be bought or sold, and the amount of securities to be bought or sold. Material limitations on Overlay Managers' authority exist by, among other things, (i) the investment instructions provided by the IAR through CFI, (ii) the model portfolios, strategies and related instructions provided by Third-Party Services Providers selected, (iii) the custodian selected for the account and (iv) the fiduciary responsibility of the IAR and CFI as described in this Brochure. Discretionary trading authority does not allow Overlay Managers, CFI or the IAR to withdraw funds or take custody of client funds or securities.

Item 17: Voting Client Proxies

Clients may receive proxies and other solicitations directly from the custodian and/or transfer agent. CFI and IARs do not take any action or give any advice with respect to voting of proxies solicited by, or with respect to, the issuers of securities in which your accounts may be invested. In addition, CFI and IARs do not take any action, or give any advice, with respect to any securities held in any accounts that are named in or subject to class action lawsuits. CFI and IARs are required to forward any proxy materials, legal proceedings or other documents received involving any securities held in a client's account to the applicable client.

Item 18: Financial Information

CFI does not require or solicit prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per client, six months or more in advance. Therefore, CFI is not required to provide an audited balance sheet for the most recent fiscal year.
